

What is Meridian Energy Analysis System?

Meridian Energy Analysis System (MEAS) is a safe and easy way to provide fast, precise and non-invasive analysis information on physical energy, mental-emotional states, metabolism, musculoskeletal balance, autonomic nervous system, and the vital organs. It is a type of integrated diagnostic method which combines modern technology and Chinese Medicine. A computer is used to detect a client's response in electric resistance from the acupuncture points and to analyze the energy flow through the client's twelve meridians.

How accurate is the Meridian Energy Analysis System?

Western diagnosis methods such as blood tests, EKG, x-rays, ultrasounds, CT, MRI, nuclear medicine scans and other various scopes can only diagnose 40% of a patient's illness; the other 60% is left undetected. The Meridian Energy Analysis System allows us to discover subtle health conditions before gross disease is manifest. After the analysis, the system will suggest proper food/nutritional support which will be most beneficial to the client. The effectiveness of the herbal supplements can be noticed in a short period of 3 to 14 days.

What are the twelve meridians?

The theory of the twelve meridians deals with the human body's physiological changes, pathological changes, and their relationship with each organ. It is one of the most vital parts of traditional Chinese medicine. Twelve meridians translate into twelve paths, twelve branches, and twelve networks, which run through our body connecting our internal organs with our external body. If a client's meridian is abnormal, it will be shown through the electric resistance change from the relative acupuncture points. For example, if the client's lung meridian is abnormal, Lung #4 acupuncture point's electric resistance will change. The change, whether in excess or deficiency, will be detected by the system.